Dreams of Freedom

Dreams of Freedom is a ballad, folk and rebel band who hails from Co Kerry in the southwest of Ireland. Dreams of Freedom is committed to carrying on the proud culture and traditions of Ireland through songs and stories. Having a great time and enjoying the experience of one of their gigs is very much their number one priority.

Dreams of Freedom works hard promoting the culture of Ireland through songs and music. This is one of their passions, telling the story of Irish history through song and music and in their own small part trying to preserve the long history of Ireland, from famines and rebellions to old stories and songs.

When you step into a Dreams of Freedom gig you will be met with instant energy and desire, you will feel the true spirit of Ireland's songs and music and you will see what bringing these songs to you means to them.

Dreams of Freedom was formed in 2001 in North County Kerry. Since then, they have gone on to secure residencies in Killarney and Dingle, and have performed throughout the USA, Italy, Germany, Holland, and the UK. In February of 2025 they will join the Tony Kenney Irish Cruise, leaving from Florida, along with many other well-known Irish entertainers.

In 2022 they had the honor to play for the homecoming of the victorious Kerry Football team in front of over 30,000 people in Tralee. Imagine you can also have the honor of seeing them on November 23, 2024 right here at the Irish American Club East Side as they perform a tribute concert in honor of Linda Burke, past president and friend of all.

Book Buzz

Bonnie Easton

Alice Taylor published her first memoir of her rural childhood in Ireland, To School Through the Fields, in 1988. It is still one of Ireland's bestselling books. Her latest book, The Gift of a Garden, tells of her love for gardening in a little town in County Cork. She describes her magic place that she has created there where she finds peace and describes the plants and objects that surround her.

So Late in the Day: Stories of Women and Men by Claire Keegan gives her readers three short stories which describe the dynamics in the relationship between the genders. The title story tells of Cathal, a lonely, hateful man who lives alone with his cat and microwave dinners. He was a jilted bridegroom who is mourning what he lost. "The Long and Painful Death" relates the tale of a woman who manipulates a misogynistic German professor for her own purposes. In "Antarctica", a happily married woman attends a retreat and pursues a one-night stand with disastrous results. Although these stories were previously published, they pack a punch when put together in one package.

The Karma Chameleon of Culture Club fame, Boy George (George O'Dowd), tells of his life as a celebrity in Karma: My Autobiography. Born in England to Irish Catholic parents, he has worked as the lead singer and songwriter of his band Culture Club since 1981, as a DJ, and, occasionally, as an actor. His story includes his impressions of such legends as David Bowie, Prince, and Madonna and coming out as gay to his family,

Rosie Life in Italy: Move to Italy: Buy a Rundown Villa: What Could Go Wrong by Rosie Meleady describes the experiences of the author as a destination wedding planner. Born in Ireland, she accidentally buys a rundown villa in the countryside in Italy and makes plans to expand her destination wedding business. She discovers that moving abroad is not quite as glamorous as it sounds.

For serious history buffs, there is The Naval

Mutiny of 1798: The Irish Plot to Seize the Channel Fleet by military historian Philip McDougall. The Society of United Irishmen organized an insurrection against the British Crown. The author bases his publication on research from Ireland's own National Archives and newspaper reports and, also, the handwritten reports of the courts martial of the rebel leaders.

Oldies but goodies: The Hungry Road: The Gripping and Heartbreaking Novel of the Great Famine by Martin Conlon-McKenna, Factory Girls by Michelle Gallen, Sisters of Belfast by Melanie Maure, The Country Girls by Edna O'Brien, and Did Ye Hear Me Mammy Died by Seamus O'Reilly.

More reading suggestions can be found at PadraicPearseCenter.weebly.com. Happy Reading!
